NORWAY AND VICINITY.
Alarm from Box 35.
The fire alarm from Box 35 was rung in Tuesday night for a fire in the stable of H. F. & E. E. Andrews on Main street.
The fire broke out in the office which is at the left of the double door. It is not known how it started as no one was in the room at the time but it is thought from indications that it was started from a pipe in a coat which was hanging on a harness hook. The pump work of the fire in the vicinity extinguished the fire so that the fire company did not have to put the streams on. The damage was slight. Had the fire broken through the floor above where the hay is it would have done a lot of damage.
It was only a pay also. The August that the Andrews family lost their buildings by fire for the second time, the first being in the big fire of 16 years ago.

The long heralded May 15th when we were "to pass through the coming of the comet" has come and gone. Curiosity got the better of us and we set the alarm at 11:30 as a good time to see it. The moon was shining brightly and what stars that could be seen because of the moon's rays looked as usual under such conditions, but there was no sign of a comet's tail or anything unusual. Did anyone see the tail when we passed through?

The closing scene is at the home of her father, where she is joined by her true lover, Tom Stanton, and the villain is taken into custody. The specialties consisted of vocal solos and a trombone solo. A street parade took place at noon headed by the band.
Attention has been called to the fact that boys have been catching white perch in the lake and it should be remembered that the law is on these fish until July 1st and that they lay them selves liable if they catch them during closed time. Another catching black bass. Many have been taken and the law has established the length to be 10 inches and anyone taking a black bass less than 10 inches is breaking the law and is liable himself. These laws are made for the good of all and should be obeyed, and by so doing the lake will afford good fishing.

Sugar Island.
Mooshead Lake, Camp Greenleaf.
We (F. W. Sanborn) arrived here via Lewiston, Waterville, Kineo and Deer Island. At the latter place a red-headed Lewiston lad took us in row boat four miles to Camp Greenleaf. We wasted little time in getting to fishing and in less than half an hour got a four and one-half pound trout out from under the wharf. This was called a "lucky" catch. The camp was opened early, the ice leaving the lake fully three weeks earlier than usual, and the fishermen were slow in coming but those hardy enough to brave the inclemency of the weather have had good catches. In fact great catches even for Mooshead.

April 23d, Harry L. Arno of Bangor got 25 pounds trout, 10 of them were caught with a fly. Wm. A. Greenleaf and Geo. C. Wing, Jr., of Auburn got their full limit as did Geo. S. Bowers of Cambridge and Herbert S. Potter of Boston got 29 trout, also F. C. Ayers and F. Joyce. Every one has been rewarded with a big catch—all the fish they wanted.

The first day we were here 63 fish were taken, seven sports with that number of guides. The weight of these fish wouldn't be far from three pounds each. The heaviest trout was 5 pounds, toge 7 1/2 pounds, salmon 3 1/2 pounds, white fish 2 pounds. It was a big catch and doubt if it is equalled again this season.

Those getting this catch were Capt. H. C. Chapman, Col. I. K. Stetson, Col. A. C. Day, H. E. Palmer and A. P. Webster of Bangor, L. D. Cummings and C. W. Cummings of Sugar Island, and the writer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Greenleaf are busy people. They have for cooks Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cummings of South Paris, and generalissimo for all work is L. D. Cummings of Norway.

All the guides are hard workers especially in getting up a picnic dinner and those here at present are Frank Oohie, J. McLeary, Frank Haggard, Dell and Ogie Harrington.

The grounds about the new hall are to be graded and seeded.

G. W. Richardson will get up a dance on the 27th.

The dinner committee for the 28th are those ladies whose names begin with A, B or C. Algie Crocker will make the toast.

By vote of the Grange the men are to plant a peck of potatoes each for the benefit of the hall. A large percentage of the members have signified their willingness to do so.

The afternoon of the 28th will be in the hands of the lecturer, who will furnish a literary program.

The committee on entertainment postponed the box supper, in part, to account of the Teachers' convention commencing the same day. The Grange is hoping the committee will present an entertainment soon.

NORWAY AND VICINITY.
Alarm from Box 35.
The fire alarm from Box 35 was rung in Tuesday noon for a fire in the sales stable of H. F. & E. E. Andrews on Main street.
The fire broke out in the office which is at the left of the double door. It is not known how it started as no one was in the room at the time but it is thought from indications that it was started from a pipe in a coat which was hanging on a harness hook. The pump truck of those in the vicinity extinguished the fire so that the fire company did not have to put the streams on. The damage was slight. Had the fire broken through the floor above where the hay is it would have done a lot of damage.
It was only a year ago last August that the Andrews family lost their buildings by fire for the second time, the first being in the big fire of 18 years ago.

The long heralded May 15th when we were "to pass through the comet's tail" has come and gone. Curiously got the better of us and we set the alarm at 11:30 as a good time to see it. The moon was shining brightly and what stars that could be seen because of the moon's rays looked as usual. The conditions, but there was no sign of a comet's tail or anything unusual. Did anyone see the tail when we passed through?

Attention has been called to the fact that boys have been catching white perch in the lake and it should be remembered that the law is on these fish until July 1st and that they lay their selves liable if they catch them during closed time. Another point regarding bass which are being caught black bass. Many have been taken in traps which are under size. The law has established the length to be 10 inches and anyone taking a black bass less than 10 inches is breaking the law and is liable himself. These laws are made for the good of all and should be obeyed, and by so doing the lake will afford good fishing.

VOLUME XLII.

Sugar Island.
Mooshead Lake, Camp Greenleaf.
We (R. W. Sanborn) arrived here via Lewiston, Waterville, Kinsco and Deer Island. At the latter place a red-headed Lewiston lad took us in row boat four miles to Camp Greenleaf. We wasted little time in getting to fishing and in less than half an hour got a four and one-half pound trout out from under the wharf. This was called poor luck.
The camp was opened early, the ice leaving the lake fully three weeks earlier than usual, and the fishermen were slow in coming but those hardy enough to brave the inclemency of the weather have had good catches. In fact great catches even for Mooshead.
April 23d, Harry L. Arno of Bangor got 25 pounds trout, 10 of them were caught with a fly. Wm. A. Greenleaf and Geo. C. Wing, Jr., of Auburn got their fall limit as did Geo. S. Bowers of Cambridge and Herbert S. Potter of Boston got 29 trout, also F. C. Ayers and F. Joyce. Every one has been rewarded with a big catch—all the fish they wanted.
The first day we were here 63 fish were taken, seven sports with that number of guides. The weight of these fish wouldn't be far from three pounds each. The heaviest trout was 3 pounds, toge 7 1/2 pounds, salmon 3 1/2 pounds, white fish 2 pounds. It was a big catch and we doubt if it is equalled again this season.
Those getting this catch were Capt. H. C. Chapman, Col. I. K. Stetson, Col. A. R. Day, H. P. Palmer and A. P. Webster of Bangor, L. D. Cummings and C. W. Cummings of Sugar Island, and the writer.
Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Greenleaf are busy people. They have for cooks Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cummings of South Paris, and generalissimo for all work is L. D. Cummings of Norway.
All the guides are hard workers especially in getting up a picnic dinner and those here at present are Frank Ochie, Jas. McLeary, Frank Haggard, Dell and Ogil Harrington.
The Norway Grange.
At its regular meeting on the 14th, five candidates were given the first and second degrees of the order. The third and fourth degrees will be conferred on the 28th at 10:30 a. m. At noon there will be the usual Harvest feast for this class and also those of the last preceding class who were not present at the last dinner.
The grounds about the new hall are to be graded and seeded.
G. W. Richardson will get up a dance on the 27th.
The dinner committee for the 28th are those ladies whose names begin with A, B or C. Algie Crocker will make the coffee.
By vote of the Grange the men are to plant a peck of potatoes each for the benefit of the hall. A large percentage of the members have signified their willingness to do so.
The afternoon of the 28th will be in the hands of the lecturer, who will furnish a literary program.
The committee on entertainment postponed the box supper, in part, on account of the Teachers' convention coming the same day. The Grange is hoping the committee will present an entertainment soon.

Keep the Kidneys Well.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Norway People Know How to Save It.

Many Norway people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. Susan F. Harlow, Skillings Ave., South Paris, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills on several occasions and have always found them to be a good kidney remedy. They strengthened my kidneys and were very effective in relieving the other symptoms of kidney complaint from which I suffered so severely. Recently, feeling that my kidneys needed a tonic, I procured Doan's Kidney Pills and I had taken but a few doses before I was relieved. I continued using the remedy and I have since felt better in every way." 20 21

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Letter Has Scared Many.

Religious Scream Alleged to Have Been Written by Christ.

In this letter was an injunction that it should be published to the world by whoever found it together with the statement that misfortune and bad luck would follow the person having possession of it. The event that it was not given publicity.

There was likewise a promise that whoever may have a copy of this in his or her possession will prosper and be followed by good fortune.

According to the history of the letter it was written by Christ just after his crucifixion, signed by the Angel Gabriel ninety-nine years after the Savior's birth and presumably deposited by him under a stone at the foot of the cross.

On this stone appeared the legend, "Blessed is he who shall turn me over." No one knew what the inscription meant, or seemed to have sufficient curiosity to investigate, until the stone was turned over by a little child and the letter which follows was discovered:

"Whoever works on the Sabbath day shall be cursed. I command you to go to church and keep holy the Lord's day, without any manner of work. You shall not idle or misspend your time in bedecking yourself in superfluities of costly apparel and vain dressing for I have ordered it a day of rest. I will have that day kept holy that your sins may be forgiven you."

"You shall not break my commandments, but observe and keep them, they being written by my hand and spoken from my mouth. You shall not only go to church yourselves, but also your man servant and maid servant. Observe my words and learn my commandments."

"You shall find your work every Saturday at 6 o'clock in the afternoon, at which hour the preparation for the Sabbath begins. I advise you to fast five days in the year, beginning on Good Friday and continuing the five days following in remembrance of the five bloody wounds I received for you and mankind."

"You shall love one another and cause them that are not baptized to come to church and receive the Holy Sacrament, that is baptism, and then the supper of the Lord, and be doing a member thereof in so doing I will give you long life and my blessings. Your land shall be replenished and bring forth abundance and I will comfort you in the greatest temptation and surely be that death to the contrary shall be cursed."

"I will also send hardness of the heart on them and especially on harden the hearts of unbelievers. He that hath unpunished sin shall find it profitable. Remember to keep the Sabbath day, for the seventh day I have taken as a resting day to myself."

"And he that hath a copy of this letter written by my own hand and spoken by my own mouth and kepteth it without publishing it to others shall not prosper, but he that publisheth it to others shall be blessed by me and if their sins be as many as stars by night, and if they truly believe they shall be pardoned and they that believe not this writing, and my commandments will be consumed with your children, goods and cattle, and all other worldly enjoyments that I have given you. Do but once think of what I have suffered for you, if you do, it will be well for you in this world and in the world which is to come."

"Whoever shall have a copy of this letter and keep it in their house, nothing shall hurt them, neither pestilence, thunder nor lightning, and if any woman be in birth and put her trust in me she shall be delivered of her child. You shall hear no more news of me except through the Holy Scriptures and all the day of judgment. All goodness and prosperity shall be in the house where a copy of this letter shall be found. Finished."

The story goes that the little child who found it passed it to one who became a convert to the Christian faith. He kept it, however, as a sacred memento of Christ and it has passed down to different generations of his family for more than one thousand years.

During this period the family suffered repeated misfortunes, migrations, and a recent courier until first one of them came to America, bringing the letter with them. They settled in Virginia, then moved further south, still followed by misfortune, when finally the last member, a daughter, approached her death bed and called a neighbor, Mrs. Thompson, giving her the letter and related its history for more than one thousand years.

The Thompson woman began the attempt to have it published and it first appeared in the Rome, Ga., Tribune on Oct. 31, 1891. It then appeared in the Dalton, Ga., Citizen and Mrs. Workman, now living in Marion, Ind., copied it and kept it in her possession for many years without an effort to have it published. She was followed by misfortune which she attributed to her neglect in trying to have the letter published.

Mrs. Ruby Crutchfield of Treasvant, Tenn., is also said to have had a copy and failed to make an effort to have it published for three years, and was followed by a varied lot of misfortunes which she attributed to the fact of her neglect in this respect.

Business on the Grand Trunk has been rather slow. The last steamer has sailed from Portland and now all steamship freight is put on board at Montreal.

Frances, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore, was awarded the prize in the children's contest by the glass blowers, who were here last week and gave entertainments. They went from here to West Bethel.

The cheap Sunday excursions on the Grand Trunk between Portland and Berlin, N. H., will commence running June 5, and will continue until October 23. There was some talk that these excursions might be discontinued this year, but it was finally decided to run them.

Fell in the Barn.
Henry Huntress of Hiram, a man about 75 years old, met with a serious accident. He went up on the high beams in his barn to pitch down some hay, and as near as he can recollect a board tipped up and let him fall a distance of 14 feet, striking in the barn floor.

The rest of the family being away, he had to lay there until a neighbor called on an errand. As he approached the barn, he heard Mr. Huntress groaning. On investigating he found him lying in the back end of the barn helpless. As he was unable to carry him into the house, he cut a coat and put over him, then went for help. While he was gone the family had returned home but had not discovered Mr. Huntress until the neighbor had returned with help. Mr. Huntress suffered a great deal of pain in his arms. No bones were broken but one shoulder blade was started.

Appetite Gone.
Indigestion is the Cause of it—Get Rid of it.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles and imagine they have a serious disease. They over eat or over drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work.

But they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do extra work. If these people would take a Mi-na stomach tablet with or after meals it would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of overwork.

Mi-na is guaranteed by Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, to cure indigestion or any stomach disease or money back.

Norway Grange, Hall, May 11, 1910.

The forenoon was spent in a discussion of feeding stuffs led by Assistant

Dairy Instructor Redman. Mr. Redman had a colored chart representing graphically the food nutrients in the different feeding stuffs, and also the Chicago Tribune. An advance of scouts always precedes the storming of a castle. A small vanguard of a few individuals makes the preliminary assault to draw brown garden ants forth from their nests. Then the main body of invaders rushes into the inner recesses, to emerge again each one with a worker pupa in its jaws. An orderly retreat is made to their own quarters, where the kidnapped workers finally emerge into a state of utter slavery, for they have to perform the whole work of the red ants' nest.

They build the passages, make the repairs and care for the pupae. All ants keep cattle in the shape of the apides, which they carefully tend and draw a supply of milky fluid from

The working ants, whether of their own or of another species, always are in slavery. Guests frequently are entertained, certain beetles being always found in their nests, where they apparently serve no useful purpose, but are fed by their hosts with liberal hospitility.

The large horse ant allows a smaller species to occupy its home. And a species known as the lasius maintains in its nest a curious lobster-like creature which frequently seems to reward its hosts by stealing food from out of their mouths and then beating a hasty retreant. The lasius appears to be remarkable for its kindness to uninvited guests, for it treats with wonderful toleration certain mites which it carries about in its body, feeding and tending them most carefully and for no known purpose.

Supreme Judicial Court.

HON. HENRY C. PARBURY, Justice Presiding.
 Tuesday, a record of Peru was tried. Tuesday on an indictment found against him at the March term of court for the larceny of goods from the Maine Central Railway Co., at East Peru, where he was station agent. He had also been indicted with one Eleazar C. Poland of the same town for breaking and entering and larceny. Record was ably defended by Lawyer Fred R. Dyer of Buckfield. The jury returned a verdict of guilty. A sentence to serve three months in the county jail was given. On another similar indictment he pleaded nolo contendere and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. The sentences are concurrent so that when the larger sentence is served the smaller will also have been served. Eleazar C. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

CLOTHESLINE HANGER.

Device Holds Several Lines and Provides For Taking Up Slack.
 The clothesline hanger which is illustrated in the accompanying engraving is adapted to support a number of clotheslines at the same time and yet permits of taking up the slack of the lines individually or altogether when desired. The lines are attached at one end to a fixed support, while the other ends are connected to separate reels, all of which are mounted on a single shaft that may be wound up to stretch the lines taut.
 The shaft, which is indicated at A, is provided at intervals with square sections adapted to fit the square bores of the reels B. The shaft is mounted in suitable brackets attached to a wall and at each end is provided with a ratchet and a crank, so that it may be wound up to tighten the lines. Each line is provided with a hook at one end adapted to engage a corresponding eye in the bar B, which is made fast to an opposite wall or other support.
 Whenever it is desired to take in one of the lines or to tighten it or loosen it with respect to the others the reel on which it is wound is moved axially until it clears the squared section of the shaft A and is then free to be turned in either direction. Whenever desired the bar B may be released from its support and the lines wound up. A corner piece, D, may then be dropped over the reels to protect them from the weather. A patent on this clothesline hanger has been obtained by George T. Van Riper, 152 South Ocean avenue, Freeport, N. Y.

HANGER FOR CLOTHESLINES.

How to Take Care of a Piano.
 Temperature is one of the most important points to be considered in keeping a piano in good condition. Extreme heat or cold or drafts are as fatal to the health of the piano as to that of a human being, therefore it should never be placed too near a fire or a window. The best place for a piano is a part of the room which is out of a draft and where a fairly even temperature is maintained. The piano should always be kept closed, to prevent dust from entering, and even then it ought to be covered up while the room is being swept. To clean the case never use furniture polish. A wash leather wrung out in warm water is the best thing. The keys should never be washed, as that discolors the ivory. If they are stained rub the stains out with a little lemon juice and salt. It spoils the keys to lift them up when dusting.
 How to Protect Hardwood Floors.
 When the sewing machine covers are of metal they will make a mark on matting and sometimes on hardwood floors, but this may easily be obviated by making small bags of cotton flannel, or a dark cloth, less noticeable which can be sewed over the casters, leaving room enough for them to roll easily and still protect the matting from the usual unsightly marks. The bags should be neatly made and caught firmly to the legs of the machine.
 How to Make an Excellent Liniment.
 A liniment that is excellent to keep on hand for sprains, bruises and colds can be easily made at home. Mix two ounces each of camphor and sweet oil. Shake it well and bottle, corking tightly. After rubbing the liniment well into the skin wrap the affected parts with flannel.
 How to Save Scorched Food.
 When food has been scorched remove the pan from the fire and set into a pan of cold water. Lay a dish towel over the pan. The towel will absorb all the scorched taste set up by the steam, and the family need never know it was burned.
 The Farmers' Protective Association have a special meeting at Perkins' Hall, Mechanic Falls, May 28th, at 10:30 a. m.

CARE OF SHOWCASES.

How to Prevent Breakage and Clean the Plate Glass.
 The position of a showcase has sometimes a great deal to do with breakage, and cases must always be set level or there is an uneven strain on some part of the case, which is liable to cause a break at any time, and when the case is not setting on a level foundation the doors will not close properly and tightly.
 Particularly is this the case with the all glass showcase now so deservedly popular, although there is one style now made that is fastened together with patent corner clamps without holes in the glass that is practically unbreakable through this cause, as the removal permit of a certain amount of movement when the case is not level, but it is a general rule that all cases must set perfectly level.
 Again, beware of the all glass case that is fastened together by metal bolts through holes in the glass, as if it is placed near a radiator or register it is almost sure to break through any sudden heat or cold owing to the unequal expansion of the glass, which brings the bolt in contact with the glass and precipitates a crack. Here again the corner clamp is better, as it allows a certain amount of movement, as stated before.
 If a crack does happen in plate glass from whatever cause it is possible to prevent its spreading in some cases by cutting a small, short scratch with a glazier's diamond directly at right angles to the crack.
 Glass should always be handled with care, and when shelves of plate glass are taken from a showcase to clean they should always be carried on edge and rested against a wall in the same manner.
 To clean plate glass use the old familiar mixture of liquid ammonia, one ounce, alcohol, one ounce; whiting, one ounce, and water to make one pint. Rub on glass with a sponge, and when dry rub off and polish with a soft cloth or chamois.

STOPPING A MOTORCAR.

How to Do It Safely and Without Straining the Machine.
 "Never do anything suddenly with an automobile," writes an experienced driver. "Only so can wear and tear on the car be minimized, not to mention accidents. Suppose you are confronted with the necessity for a sudden stop. Your amateur impulse will be to jam down the clutch pedal, grip the emergency brake lever and clamp the wheels into cessation of their revolution.
 "The motor, thus relieved of its load, will begin to race, the fly wheel will spin around with increasing velocity, and you are lucky if, especially on wet pavement, your car does not skid around like a top, hit the curb and turn turtle with you underneath. The wear of this sort of stop on the tires should be a sufficient consideration for you to refrain from cultivating it.
 "If, on the other hand, you first close the throttle, then throw out the clutch and apply the brake just hard enough to allow the wheels barely to revolve, your car will come to a stop, and without strain.
 The motions to accomplish this must of course be practically simultaneous, but those required are no more difficult than those required for the wrong sort of stop. Once at rest, you open the throttle instantly and advance the spark if necessary to start the engine. The clutch can then be thrown in gradually when you wish to advance."—Outing Magazine.

BROWNFIELD.

Although forty years with all their changes lie between the removal of Edward O. Stickney from Brownfield, to his early home, to Merced, California, many, especially older residents of his section, will heartily regret his death at his late home in British Colony on Monday, May 1st, after some months of suffering from hardening of the liver culminating in a shock of paralysis during which he passed quietly away "like a child going to sleep."
 Being industrious and intelligent in planning he is said to have won from the soil in his forty years' residence in the Golden state an estate valued at from $60,000 to $75,000.
 He was born in Brownfield in 1850, where relatives still reside. He married Sarah Bean of Oakland in 1876 and four children of this union survive. He mourned the death of one son and it was thought this grief was the beginning of his physical decline. One son, John Stickney, and three daughters, Carrie, Hattie and Mrs. Alice Givens and a faithful wife, besides two sisters, Mrs. Annie Farrington of West Fryeburg and Mrs. Susan Wakefield of Stockton, Cal.

Mr. Stickney's death brings sorrow to many hearts besides those of his devoted family, a man of great kindness and generous impulses he endeavored to help and greatly to those who came into close contact with him and was universally popular.
 The funeral was held on Thursday at 1 o'clock p. m., from the family's residence in British Colony, and was largely attended. Rev. James Millard, who conducted the services and pronounced a touching eulogy.
 The interment was conducted by the order of Knights of Pythias and their deceased brother laid away until the final awakening in their own home of the fraternal societies' cemetery.

NORTH LOVELL.

Arbor day was appropriately observed by the members of Kezar Lake Grange. They planted trees of different kinds, set out shrubs and made flower beds on the hall grounds. If everything that was planted lives and grows it will make a great improvement in the looks of the grounds.
 The pupils of the Bartlettboro, East Stoneham and West Stoneham schools were invited to spend the day with the North Lovell school and help celebrate the day. Nearly all the scholars from each school were present and helped in the entertainment in the afternoon.
 At noon a baked bean and pastry dinner was served to which the company, new with appetites sharpened by the keen air, did full justice.
 In the afternoon a fine program was given, consisting of music by the choir, singing by the members of the different schools, a song by little Frances and Pauline Wilson and a very fine recitation by Beryl McKean of Norway high school. It was an exceedingly good entertainment and many thanks are due the pupils of the different schools for their kindness in giving the people present so pleasant an afternoon.
 It was a day well spent and may every Arbor day be as well observed every coming year. The speaker, B. Walker McKean, was unable to be present and short addresses were given by H. B. McKean, R. M. McKean and W. W. Durgin.

Medal Contest.

The annual medal contest given by the Sophomore class under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. was held at the Norway Opera House, Friday evening, May 13, with a good attendance. The Sophomore class led by Francis H. Sweet marched down the center aisle at 8 o'clock, keeping time to the music of the piano which was played by Azola Pike. The program consisted of music, readings and a fancy drill, and was opened with prayer by Rev. M. C. Ward followed by a song, "Blow, Soft Winds," by the seventh, eighth and ninth grades. The Relief of Lucknow was read by One Howe. This was an account of the relief of the city of Lucknow in India when it was besieged and of how the city was saved upon the arrival of its rescuers. The saving of this city was taken as an illustration of how the W. C. T. U. is fighting against the dread king, Alcohol.

What Shall We Do About It? was the question asked by Francis H. Sweet. He reviewed the situation of the use of liquor; the number of criminals, lunatics and orphans made by the use of liquor, and that $1,000,000,000 is annually spent in this business. The question was, what shall the boys and girls who are soon to take the places of the men and women now in the business world do about this liquor question.

Beryl Knight read the story of Pili Take What Father Takes. It tells of a boy who went to a banquet with his father. At the supper it was asked what kind of beer the different guests would take. When it came to the boy's turn he said, "I'll take what father takes." The father, taking in the situation, said "I'll take water," and through this act this young boy was saved from intemperance.

Simon Grubb's Dream was read by Donald Welch. Simon Grubb dreamed that he was dead and the different animals that he had owned all came to him, one by one, and told him of the treatment that they had received from him, being allowed to starve and almost freeze because he took his money and put it into liquor instead of buying feed for his dumb animals.

An Old Couple from the Country Visit the Orphans was read by Hazel Groves. Maria and Josiah Allen came to visit this orphan home in western Maine, and when entering saw thirty-four small children. While there one came toddling over to them, and Maria said she must take that child for it looked like one of her own who had died. Another one came to her and she must take this one also for it was like one of her own. This one was Josiah and he said he must have that one too for he was like their little boy. The officials thought it strange for this old couple to take so many children, but they insisted upon it and three of the orphans had a home with the old couple as long as they lived. The garland drill was given by twelve young ladies of the Freshman class. Each wore red muslin over a white dress and carried streamers of evergreens and flowers. The young ladies came tripping across the stage to the music played by Azola Pike. The footlights were red and the girls wore exceptionally pretty, as they went through the different evolutions, keeping time to the music.

Ava Watson read The Surrender. It is the story of a young woman who went into a saloon in some city and knelt in silent prayer. This she did daily, but the keeper stood it for a while but finally surrendered, and the saloon was abolished.

Carroll Bartlett read What Sort of a Man? He was in the presence of an old man who offered him a glass of beer, telling him it would make a man of him. He answered with question, asking, "What sort of a man?" but the old man did not reply. He reviewed the situation and spoke of certain people who used it, what they were and what they looked like, and then of others who did not use it, how they looked, and concluded he would rather not be a victim to strong drink.

Helen Bangs read Pledge with Wine. This was a wedding scene and wine was being passed. As the bride took a glass she reflected upon the situation. She told of her brother who had died a drunkard and of the terrible curse it had brought upon him and then told of her drink the wine, dropping it to the floor, the glass breaking into a thousand pieces, and from that time she and her husband resolved never to use liquor.

The Two Visions was read by Marjorie Barker. In the first vision she pictured a country where men were not allowed to vote, where it was only a woman's right. She told of how the husband was too busy, how it would detract his attention from his business, and that only a woman should be allowed to vote. The other vision was one where men had all the power and women did not have the right to vote.

The semi-chorus of the High school gave a selection from Samson and Delilah O'Saint-Saens, with a violin obligato by Marion Haskell and Harold Moore, and Azola Pike, accompanist.
Hazel Bicknell read Little Blossom. Little Blossom was a small child and one evening was left in her chamber all alone while her father and mother were away. She resolved to go and find her father who he was in the habit of drinking. She found him in such a condition that he picked up a chair and struck the girl such a blow that she died. This was what drink did for him.

The Fence or the Ambulance was read by Bernice Nash. There was a certain cliff over which people were apt to fall and an ambulance was purchased in the valley to care for the people who fell. The question was whether it was best to put up a fence at the top of the precipice and remove the ambulance, or keep the place open and the ambulance to care for the dead and dying. Some said to put up the fence while others held that they already had the ambulance. This was an illustration of the liquor business.

Hazel White read One Standard for Both Sexes. This told of a certain woman who had two children, a boy and a girl. The mother held that if it was right for the boy to stand around on street corners and in hotels, or drink and smoke cigars, it was just as right for the girl to do the same, and that what was wrong for the boy was just as wrong for the girl.

The Tyranny of Kings was read by Cecil Brown. It told of the tyranny of the alcoholic king, what it does for its people and the curse it brings to them and resolved to do away with the liquor traffic and become a prohibition country and not allow the licensing of men to sell and thus bring a curse upon its people.

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Black Duck, Minn.—"About a year ago I wrote you that I was sick and could not do any of my housework. My sickness was called Retroflexion. When I would sit down I felt as if I could not get up. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and did just as you told me and now I am perfectly cured, and have a big baby boy."

Consider This Advice.
No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial.

This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

We can't help thinking that the present wicked destruction of our Maine forests and farmers' wood lots, even, is more than likely to lead to some good after all. Already the butchers have learned that they have overdone the business, especially in the box board line. It is known that the throwing of so much material on the market has completely demoralized the business.

QUEEN OF ACTRESSES PRAISES PE-RU-NA.

"I am glad to write my endorsement of the great remedy, Peru-Ru-Na. I do so most heartily." - Julia Marlowe. Any remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves. Legend of the Dandelion.

The angel of the flowers came forth long ago and wandered in field and forest and garden to find the flower she loved the most. There came a gay tulip all orange and red, standing stiff and proud, and the angel said, "Where should you like most of all to live?" "On a castle lawn in the velvet grass," said the tulip, "where my colors would show against the gray castle walls."

But the angel turned sadly away and spoke to the rose.

"Where should you like most to stay?" she asked.

"I should like to climb the castle walls," said the rose, "for I am fragile and delicate, and not able to climb myself."

The angel turned sadly away and hurried on until she came to the violet growing in the forest, and said, "Where should you like most of all to live?"

"Here in the woods where I am hidden from every one," said the violet. "The brooks call me, and the trees keep the warm sun from spoiling my beautiful color."

But the angel turned away and went on until she came to the sturdy, yellow dandelion growing in the meadow grass, and asked her.

"Oh," cried the dandelion, "I want to live wherever the happy children may find me when they run by to school, or romp and play in the fields. I want to live by the roadside, and make everyone glad by my bright color."

"You are the flower I love the most," said the angel. "You shall blossom everywhere from spring until fall, and be the children's flower."

That is why the dandelion comes so early and pushes her head up everywhere—by hedge, and field, and hut, and wall; and has such a long sweet life.

Summer Care of the Pigs.

Many farmers think that they cannot afford to feed the pigs liberally during the summer season. The pigs are allowed to shift for themselves in many instances and of course do not make much growth but one may see a pretty good profit in feeding at the present high prices of both feed and pork.

The hogs will just about live on the pasture they can gather from the field, and what grain is given them goes to growth; and anyone who has tried it has found that only a moderate ration fed to the shoats on pasture will make a good growth throughout the season.

Early spring pigs of any good breed can be made to average a pound a day a day by the time they are eight or ten months old, and a large part of this can be made on pasture.

The pig that is fed enough food to keep it growing rapidly from the start to finish, is usually the most profitable porker.

In some sections where there is sufficient waste crop to fatten the hogs, it may be profitable to allow the shoats to shift for themselves.

However, usually the hogs that are allowed to shift for themselves, and get fat on the waste, are easy victims of cholera and swine plague. There is a section in the western part of my country in West Virginia, where the hogs are allowed the free range of the forests, and that locality is visited by cholera every year or two.

It is a fair profit in feeding hogs, the business should be conducted in a careful and businesslike way as the feeding of cattle and sheep.

Halley's comet now makes its appearance at about 2 o'clock in the morning. This furnishes an excellent excuse for amateur astronomers to stay out late nights.

New Ways of Indian Girls.

They Are Said to Make Ideal Hospital Nurses and Good Needle Workers.

Estelle Reel, who 12 years ago was appointed by President McKinley superintendent of Indian schools, "probably knows more than any other white woman about her copper colored sisters."

"I always had their cause at heart," she says in Good Housekeeping, "but something I witnessed years ago made me realize how much they needed help."

I had been in the saddle a week, traveling through isolated reservations, when I landed one stormy night at a little hotel in a mountain town.

"Before I retired I stood at my bedroom window, looking down into the deserted street. Across the way, huddled in the shadow beside a mean saloon, stood a group of squaws. Each one had a papoose strapped to her back. The heads of the squaws were turned away from the stinging blasts of sleet; standing silent and motionless as Indian women do. Each one had a husband and child in the saloon. She was waiting to take him safely home."

"In the morning I looked out of the window. It was still blowing, sleet and snowing. There, ankle deep in the slush, stood the little group of squaws. It seemed to me that had not stirred a foot. They were wetter, more bedraggled and their blankets were drawn tighter around them."

"The Indian woman will stick to a drink sodden husband till he drops dead, she does not. The government is fighting the whiskey war on the reservations with every weapon it possesses, but the Indian brave will drink when he wants it and can get it—just as the white man does. A squaw knows nothing of discipline. She would not listen if you told her of it."

According to Miss Reel there is but one method to help the Indian woman; that is to educate her from childhood along industrial lines. Until a few years ago there was absolutely no future for the Indian girl except to marry. That was the best thing, provided she could find a decent, energetic, ambitious husband; only—there are so many of the other sort.

The educated Indian girl looks for a higher type of manhood in a husband than satisfied her mother. If she does not find her ideal she is perfectly capable of earning her own living. You may find her in any one of various trades that he has for special work. She makes a superb nurse.

Hospitals which have trained Indian girls are making a constant effort to enlist others of the race. She has infinite patience, forbearance, generally a magnificent physique and no trace of the "nerves" which so often cause a breakdown among over-civilized races.

An Indian girl can go through the most trying surgical case with a stoical calm that is extraordinary. She never gets flustered, nervous or worried, and she obeys the physician as a soldier does his commander. In caring for cases of severe illness she seems to live on some strange reserve force and is a tender as well as a painstaking nurse.

Indian girls make splendid needlewomen. They inherit the skill their grandmothers put into bead work or basket making. They have excellent taste and an intuitive idea of good color.

You find among them good musicians, their exact as teachers of their own people and many have achieved a high place as workers in the arts and crafts. As often as possible art is taught in the schools by an Indian woman, with a high regard for all that is best in native handicraft.

After twelve years the ill-fated battleship Maine is to be removed from the Havana harbor and the bodies which went down with the vessel will be interred in the national cemetery at Arlington. A bill providing for such removal and burial which has passed the House, was passed by the Senate. The bill directs the raising of the vessel by the secretary of war and the board of engineers with "all convenient speed."

The bodies in the ship are to be buried in Arlington and the mast is to be lifted above their graves as a monument.

One of the smartest old men in Maine at the present time is Simon Smith of East Dixfield. Mr. Smith was born Oct. 1, 1817, and is therefore 93 years of age. His health is still excellent and he often calls on friends.

A New Grand Stand.

The Oxford County Agricultural Society held a meeting at the fair grounds. A sufficient number of entries has not been received, the trustees voted to call off the recently announced stake races for colts and in their place will substitute class races, the entries for which will close at the same time as the others were to have closed. Perhaps the matter of most importance and one on which the trustees agreed it was necessary to take action, was that of the erection of a new grand stand. It was finally voted to erect one, but this does not mean that the other one will be torn down. The new one will be to the eastward of the race track and between the fence and the pulling grounds so that spectators can see both the pulling and racing. It is planned to build a grand stand which will be about 100 feet long and will accommodate 1,000 people.
